DAN WHITE DOES HIMSELF IN

Dan White, 39, the infamous killer of San Francisco's Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk, died of self-imposed asphyxiation on October 21. White, himself a former San Francisco Supervisor, died in the garage of his home in San Francisco. He had used a hose to pipe carbon monoxide from the exhaust into the passenger compartment of a car.

Gay leaders had muted response to the news, with many offering sympathy for White's widow and children. Many gay people regard the double murder White committed on the morning of November 27, 1978 as being largely motivated by anti-gay sentiments since he killed the first acknowledged homosexual to obtain public office in San Francisco, Milk, and Moscone who had long allied himself with gay causes.

White's trial caused a sensation, with the defense of diminished capacity in which his lawyer argued that White was so depressed he lacked the mental ability to plan a murder. It was referred to as the Twinkie Defense because of testimony that White's consumption of large amounts of sugary junk food caused his depression.

For the double murder, White was sentenced to a mere seven-year term. He actually served only five years, one month, and nine days before his release in January 1984.

Up until his suicide, the general public was unaware that he felt any remorse for his crime because he never made any type of public statement to that effect. However, his self-inflicted demise would seem to argue otherwise.

Is The Fed Discouraging Some AIDS Research?

Some medical researchers believe the federal government is discouraging tests that might identify a swine virus as a cause of AIDS because of fear that such a revelation might destroy the pork industry.

The researchers say their work is being impeded by the Agriculture Department, which controls the material necessary for swine-fever tests. However, US officials have discounted any suggestion of a connection between AIDS and African swine-fever virus and say all governmental tests have been negative.

In a letter presented in a recent issue of the British medical journal Lancet, Dr. Jane Teas advanced the theory that African swine fever might be a cause of AIDS. Dr. Teas reported that she had found a parallel between a swine-fever outbreak in Haiti and cases of AIDS in humans there. Dr. Teas believes that a new strain of swine fever was contracted by Haitians when they ate undercooked meat, then it was spread through sexual contact to visiting Americans. The two diseases have similar symptoms.

Sources in the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta say doctors there believe that sufficient testing on a possible AIDS/swine-fever connection has been done. Reportedly, the tests revealed some positive reactions.

Lesbian Ex-Mayor Faces Serious Charges

Valerie Terrigno, an avowed lesbian who resigned last month as the first mayor of the new city of West Hollywood, has been indicted by a federal grand jury on 14 counts of embezzling $11,000 intended for the poor and homeless. The charges stemmed from her former job as executive director of Crossroads Counseling, a federally funded organization.

Rather than giving food coupons to the hungry and under-privileged, it is alleged that Terrigno issued coupons to herself and her friends in order to purchase food and drinks for personal use. She also is charged with preparing a forged list of indigents to indicate that needy people received the coupons. She submitted the list to the United Way, which administered the program, the indictment says.

The indictment also alleges that Terrigno issued a $450 check on the Federal Emergency Management Agency's account to an auto mechanic for repairs on her car. In addition, she is charged with issuing to herself four payroll checks of $581.15 each that "she knew she was not entitled to."

Other charges involve checks allegedly written to friends and to Terrigno's landlord to pay her rent.

Terrigno has denied any wrong doing. If convicted, she faces a maximum ten years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each felony count.

MAYORAL CANDIDATE HAS NASTY MOUTH

In Houston, the mouth of Republican mayoral candidate Louie Welch has gotten him into a lot of hot water.

Welch, who has made morality the No. 1 issue in his campaign, blurted out on live television that a way to stop AIDS would be to "shoot the queers." He was awaiting a live TV interview about his proposals to halt the spread of AIDS when a microphone inadvertently left on by a technician picked up his comment.

"I pulled a Reagan," Welch said, comparing his gaffe to President Reagan's infamous "bomb the Russians" remark. "I apologize, but I don't think I had the gay vote anyway. There was nothing serious about it. It was a moment of levity before we went on camera. It was an unfortunate choice of humor."

Political analysts agree that the remark will not help Welch in the non-partisan election. His candidacy was prompted by the overwhelming defeat earlier this year of a referendum proposal that would have banned discrimination due to sexual preference in city hiring. President of the Houston Chamber of Commerce at the time, Welch spearheaded efforts against the proposal. He contends that prostitution, homosexuality, and the spread of adult bookstores have made Houston a less attractive place to raise a family.

since vitamin C inactivates viruses, it would seem that in large doses vitamin C might help," Pauling told reporters at a press conference at Reed College. He pointed out that vitamin C builds up the body's immune system.

GAY COUPLES HAPPIER THAN STRAIGHT ONES

A recent study revealed that gay couples are generally happier living together than unmarried straight couples are. The study also indicated that married straight people are happier than their co-habiting counterparts.

Lawrence Kurdek, professor of psychology at Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio, studied 185 straight and gay couples, married and non-married. He found that unmarried straight pairs often view their relationships as experimental, while homosexual couples are more committed to their relationships even though marriage is not an option.

Kurdek says the successful couples—both gay and straight—attribute their happiness to four things: (1) Strong attachment to their partners; (2) Shared decision-making; (3) Believing that ending the relationship would be very difficult; and (4) Understanding that disagreements can be constructive.

Lesbian Legislator Appointed To Democratic Panel

The Hon. Karen Clark, two-term member of the Minnesota State House of Representatives, was recently appointed by Governor Rudy Perpich to serve as one of Minnesota's four special participants on the newly established Democratic Policy Commission.

The Commission, which is being chaired by former Utah Governor

Scott Matheson, consists of approximately 100 current and former elected Democratic officials from around the country.

The appointment is part of the National Association's on-going effort to assure lesbian and gay Democrats full participation within the Democratic Party at all levels.

HRCF's D.C. Gala A Smash

More than 1000 people recently attended A Salute To Jerry Herman, the Human Rights Campaign Fund's Second Annual Washington, D.C. Gala. It was the largest such gathering of gay people and their friends the nation's capital has ever seen, raising over $130,000 for the Campaign Fund.

Dinner guests heard from Congressman Henry Waxman, keynote speaker and Chairman of the Health and Environment Subcommittee which has jurisdiction over the government's AIDS effort. Congressman Waxman has been a leading proponent of a responsible federal role to defeat AIDS.

Vic Basile, Executive Director of the Campaign Fund, announced the first campaign contributions to members of Congress from the AIDS Campaign Trust (ACT on AIDS). ACT has been established by the HRCF to support candidates who favor increased federal funding for AIDS treatment, research, and education.

The 12 Members who will each receive $1000 are Representatives Barbara Boxer (D-CA), Tony Coelho (D-CA) and Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee), Barney Frank (D-MA), Bill Green (R-NY), Steny Hoyer (D-MD), Stewart McKinney (R-CT), Edward Roybal (D-CA), Gerry Studds (D-MA), Henry Waxman (D-CA), and Ted Weiss (D-NY); and Senators Alan Cranston (D-CA) and Lowell Weicker (R-CT).

The 12 were selected as the first recipients of contributions from the AIDS Campaign Trust because of their outstanding support and leadership on the issue of AIDS funding.

Dr. Ruth Westheimer, the well-known sex therapist with her own television and radio programs, served as the evening's MC. She told the audience that "good sex is good sex whether it is practiced by heterosexuals or homosexuals." She criticized "those whose prejudiced view of the gay community would have us believe that gay sex is wrong, unhealthy, unimportant, and unnecessary" as people who are "spreading a kind of disease that is just as threatening to society as AIDS itself."

HOROSCOPES FOR THE HORNY!

by Dr. Pat Larr

SCORPIO (Oct 23-Nov 22): Private pleasures put a strain on an existing friendship. The solution is just a kiss away. Besides, you'd never be able to feel that good by yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21): Do you really want to put up with that special someone for one more day? You find the answer mid-month when he/she rubs you the wrong way and it feels so right.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19): Expect a surprising solution to a sticky problem by month's end. Your tendency to give and receive makes you rise to the occasion.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 18): Like all water signs, people tend to view you as an air head. Your friends re-evaluate you this month when they realize you don't just blow hot air.

PISCES (Feb 19-Mar 20): Leave it to you to find a live turkey on the day after Thanksgiving; but with your luck, of course, you'll do it. Knock the stuffing out of this one if you don't have a hard time!

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 19): The man in the moon guides you this month, and you know how you like a full moon. A moonkid waxes hot for you. Grab him before he wanes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Expect the unexpected. Someone you meet could change your love life. You do like the wet spot, don't you?

GEMINI (May 21-Jun 20): Your love life is a real drag right now. Maybe a new dress would do the trick? Maybe a new trick would do instead? You decide.

CANCER (Jun 21-Jul 22): You know how you love being on stage; but mid-month, when that special someone says you should be on it, he means "the next one leaving town." Take his advice.

LEO (Jul 23-Aug 22): The hardest choice you'll ever make concerning that special someone comes to a firm conclusion. You'll be glad to get everything out of your system.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sep 22): An amorous adventure could last longer than you bargained for. But then, you always wanted someone with staying power.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 22): You let it all hang out for a mysterious stranger who loves you in spite of your shortcomings. You, on the other hand, are in for a handful of happiness.

THE KITCHEN FAIRY

STUFFING IT!

Honey, my horn of plenty stands erect when I think of Thanksgiving! The sheer overindulgence spawned by this bacchanalia built around a bird warms my cockles (and a muscle or two as well!). Here is the most unbridled culinary debauchery of the year, and at its very center is a bird of incredible proportions. Talk about adulation! There it sits stuffed right and pressed tight against its golden brown skin just waiting to be eaten. (Finger lickin'!) A big, succulent bird bound and browned.... This is truly sex on the table, sweetlips!

And I do mean a big one! Never skimp when it comes to buying a bird, friend. I mean when you can lay your hands on a big bird, why settle for a little one? Besides the meat keeps, cooked and frozen, for three months awaiting other pleasures. (Few birds I have eaten are this obliging!) So, bring home the big one, wash it inside and out, pat it dry and stuff it.

How you stuff it is, of course, a matter of personal preference (different strokes...). And there are more ways to stuff your bird than there are queens in the Hollywood resale shops. What follows are a few inspiring suggestions that will have them clamoring to eat your bird!!! And, dear, that is something to be truly thankful for!

Southern Decadence Dressing

(Corn Bread, Ham, Dried Apple Stuffing)

Singing Sausage Stuffing

(Italian Sausage Stuffing)

Fruiting The Bird

(Apple, Raisin, Rye Bread Stuffing)

Southern Decadence Dressing

Hang on to your hoop skirts, ya'll. The South will rise again, and your bird's gonna rise with it!

Ingredients:

Buttermilk corn bread (recipe follows)

4 cups chopped onions
4 cups chopped celery
3 cloves of garlic, pressed
1/3 cup vegetable oil
2 cups chopped dried apples
1/2 pound sliced smoked ham, finely chopped (Black Forest or Westphalian Ham come highly recommended)

1/2 cup minced, fresh parsley
1 Tablespoon crumbled, dried sage

2 teaspoons crumbled, dried marjoram

1 teaspoon crumbled, dried rosemary

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup (1 stick, oooh!) butter, melted and cooled

Preparation:

1. Crumble the corn bread coarsely onto 2 jellyroll pans and bake in preheated 325-degree oven. Stir often for 30 to 40 minutes till it's dry and a golden color.

2. Cool your corn bread, honey, and toss it into a large bowl.

3. In the oil, cook the onions, celery and garlic with a dash of salt and pepper (so many couples are these days!) till the veggies are softened. Toss these in with the corn bread.

4. Add the remaining ingredients to the corn bread mixture and toss gently (hold yourself back, tiger!) to mix well.

5. Cool it completely.

NOTE: Here's good news, dears—you can make this the day before and keep it in the bowl covered and refrigerated.

Buttermilk Corn Bread

Talk about temptation, doll! I mean a whole pan of this delight, and you're supposed to save it all for the stuffing! My advice is to taste it with your eyes—the same way you do in the bars!

Ingredients:

1 cup yellow cornmeal
1 cup flour
1 Tablespoon sugar
4 teaspoons double-acting baking powder. (My last date had the same kind of action. It was divine!)

1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup chilled vegetable shortening cut into bits (plus a Tablespoon to grease the pan)

1 cup buttermilk
1 large egg, lightly beaten

Preparation:

1. In a bowl mix together the cornmeal, flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Mix well.

2. Add the shortening, blending till the mixture looks like coarse meal.

3. Stir in the buttermilk and egg, till everything's combined but still slightly lumpy.

4. Melt the teaspoon of shortening in an 8-inch square pan in a preheated 425-degree oven. Tilt the pan to coat it well with the shortening.

5. Pour in the batter.

6. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes at 425 degrees. (A toothpick inserted—oooh!—should come out clean.) Cool it for 5 minutes in the pan.

Singing Sausage Stuffing

Honey, this Italian stuffing will not only get your bird chirping, but your sausage singing as well!

Stuffs: An 18 to 20 pound bird

Ingredients:

1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
3/4 pound sweet Italian sausage, crumbled

1 cup chopped celery
1 medium-size onion, chopped
1/4 pound mushrooms, sliced

1 (10-oz.) package frozen, chopped spinach, thawed

1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

1 cup chopped almonds
3/4 cup dry white wine

1 teaspoon dried rosemary
1 teaspoon dried oregano

1 (6 oz.) package unseasoned stuffing cubes (about 4 cups)

Salt, to taste

Preparation:

1. Melt the butter in a 5-quart pan.

2. Add the sausage, celery and onion. Cook over medium-high heat for about 20 minutes, stirring often, till your sausage is browned (oooh!).

3. Toss in the mushrooms and cook, stirring often, till the liquid they give up has evaporated. About 7 minutes.

4. Take it off the heat, honey. Stir in the remaining ingredients. Mix it up well. Salt to taste.

Fruiting The Bird

What bird wouldn't like to be stuffed with some fruit (and vice versa!)

Stuffs: A 15 pounder

Ingredients:

10 slices of rye bread

1 cup raisins

2/3 cup sweet apple cider
2 large onions, chopped
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
2 Golden Delicious apples, peeled and chopped
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon caraway seed
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
Nutmeg, to taste

Preparation:

1. Tear the rye bread into 1/2-inch pieces and leave it in a jellyroll pan at room temperature over night.

2. Toast the bread in the pan in a 375-degree oven for 10 minutes or until golden. Toss it into a large bowl.

3. Put the raisins and cider into a small stainless steel or enameled saucepan. Bring the cider to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer the raisins, covered, for 10 minutes. (Doll, they should plump when you cook 'em!) Pour this over the bread.

4. Cook the onions in the butter, covered, over medium-low heat, stirring occasionally, for 20 minutes or till golden. Add this to the bowl.

5. Add the rest of the ingredients to the bowl and mix well.

6. Cool your stuffing before stuffing.

Hope your bird is a beauty, dear! And remember: you can't eat too much—it is Thanksgiving! Just try not to talk with your mouth full! (It's so distracting!) Don't miss next month's adventure in culinary linguistics: LOVE YOUR COOKES, DOLL! Till next we eat, Yummy Down and.... Kiss. Kiss.

BOOK REVIEW!

YOUNG GAY AND PROUD!, Alyson Publications, Inc., Boston, MA, 1985.

This slim paperback volume is a new version of an informative little textbook which was first published in 1980. So much has happened in the intervening five years, most importantly AIDS, that the publishers felt it was appropriate to issue a revision.

This new edition has a certain amount of new content. Certainly it has a new audience because few, if any, of the young people who will benefit from it today were of an appropriate age to do so five years ago when the first edition appeared.

No authors are listed on the cover. However, some chapters do show authors' names. Among those writers are Scott Calvin, Mary Ann Deutschmann, Ron Schettino, and Beth Harrison.

The list of topics covered seems fairly exhaustive. However, the approach is consistently condescending and the content superficial. One would think that today's teenagers would probably be capable of handling more sophisticated coverage. Perhaps not.

The many simplistic illustrations, mostly line drawings and sketches, by Beth Ireland are excellent.

Clever titles, excellent photography, and beautiful bodies make this a must-see film.

Move Over, Johnny is a boring and tedious film about bikers having fun with each other on and off their motorcycles. Not recommended.

Beyond Hawaii, another Higgins' film, takes us on a tour of Maui. Two young men from the mainland tour the island via a Mustang convertible, finding interest in the scenery and each other. These boys do it on the beach, behind waterfalls, and in bed. As usual, the director provides us with beautiful photography and pretty boys. A fun film.

(All of the above-mentioned films are available for rent on cassette at Films for Days now located at 2300 "O" Street in Sacramento.)

millet is virtually unknown. Pigs eat more millet than Americans. Ever since I've been eating in the 'alternative' style, I've been wondering how to cook yellow millet in such a way as to give it the appeal of a daily staple.

Larousse "Gastonomie," the famous French culinary encyclopedia, mentions that it is the basis of alimentary pastes and 'blanc mange' (white pudding) but only gives one recipe. My introduction to millet was as a grain in dinner. For this it is boiled, one cup millet to three cups water, for 30 to 45 minutes. Onions (metal), garlic (metal), and all sorts of vegetables can be added to make a tasty main dish for dinner. Carrots and cabbage and caraway seeds are great additions on cold winter days. Use other seasonings in other seasons. Yellow millet is also a frequent ingredient of miso soup.

Well, recently I put on my butch leather vest and my cowboy hat and went into the kitchen. What came out was a delicious gourmet pudding. It was so good my lover and I did a gourmand number and ate the whole thing right there. I decided to call it "Olympic Pudding" in honor of the 1982 Gay (bleep) Games.

Recipe

First, take about 1/2 cup yellow millet and 1 1/2 to 2 cups water and cook without boiling in your crock-pot or double boiler. This should take about two hours, maybe three. The millet needs to be cooked to a thick paste. Cool somewhat. Then add 2, 3, or 4 ripe bananas and stir them into the millet with a whisk to fully break them up.

Add a good 1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon of vanilla (fire) and 1 drop of Angostura Bitters (fire), a tiny pinch of sea salt (water), the tiniest sprinkle of cayenne pepper (metal), and 1/4 cup of honey (earth).

Beyond Hawaii

They Work For Their Money, a William Higgins' film, shows us how a disobedient employee reconciles his differences with the boss by participating in a three-way. This activity occurs during work hours in a receiving warehouse.

In order to be recommended for a pay raise, another subject is cajoled into "doing" his supervisor. Although our man resists at first, he soon gets into the spirit of things.

A third segment presents us with two hunky guys working out together. The two find more than just lifting weights in common. A towel dropped by one man raises the interest of the other. Soon we have sex supplementing their bodybuilding.

Yellow millet is one of the primary grains of two thirds of the world's population. It is also one of the primary grains of China and the Five Element Diet. It is usually considered to be an earth-element grain, but sometimes is recognized as a fire-element food too. Birds, especially finches, eat a lot of millet, and it is a major constituent of bird seed. It is one of the things that puts grace notes in a canary's song.

AIDS Services Foundation, a non-profit agency, exists to provide quality support services to persons with AIDS (and those with ARC), and others whose lives have been affected by AIDS.

SAN ANTONIO

According to an article in Newsweek Magazine, the city of San Antonio, Texas has declared that anyone found to have AIDS risks jail if he has sex with a healthy person. The declaration invokes Texas' Communicable Disease and Prevention Control Act of 1982, which gives local health officials the power to control unspecified contagious diseases.

A letter to be sent to 17 people under treatment for AIDS in San Antonio warns in part: "You must not engage in sexual intercourse with anyone not having a confirmed diagnosis of AIDS. You must not share needles with another."

Anyone found guilty of violating the order is faced with 2 to 10 years behind bars.

BIRMINGHAM

Concerned about possible lawsuits over AIDS, officials in Birmingham, Alabama have ended the use of prison gangs on road work.

The County Commissioner said the decision was made because of fear that if a citizen caught AIDS from a prisoner, the county could be subject to lawsuits.

One prisoner at the state's West Jefferson Correctional Facility recently tested positive for AIDS and was transferred to a prison near Athens. Prison officials said the man had engaged in sexual relations with many other inmates.

To date, no AIDS cases have been diagnosed at the county jail.

UPPER MONTCLAIR

Gay/History On Stamps has been in existence since the early '80s. The organization has a publication, Lambda Philatelic Journal which is printed quarterly. They have also published a handbook of Gays on Stamps. For more information, write GLHS, 512 Park Street, Upper Montclair, NJ 07043.

OMAHA

The River City Mixed Chorus is now into its second year and currently includes 30 singers, one accompanist, and a Music Director (John Zeigler).

In addition to having a booth at the Imperial Court of Nebraska picnic, the group had its first public performances when it sang at the new exhibit at Western Heritage Museum. The performance was well received by the audience.

Auditions for the present concert period have ended; however, the Chorus is always looking for people to share their talents in areas other than singing. People are needed to help with fund-raising, show production, and whatever else might be needed at performances such as helping set up and taking tickets.

For more information, call (402) 455-2334, or write Box 314, Omaha, 68101.

SUSSEX

The Loving Brotherhood will hold its Celebration of Life on December 14-15 and January 11-12. The gatherings will be held at the group's headquarters in northwestern New Jersey.

For more information, send a SASE to: The Loving Brotherhood, Box 556, Sussex, NJ 07461.

COLUMBUS

Judges recently selected Lauren Stevens as Miss Gay Columbus 1985-86. Miss Stevens has dark brown hair and black eyes, is 5'10" tall, and has an interest in vintage clothes and fashion.

There were ten contestants who competed for prize money and trophies in talent, sportswear, and evening gown. In addition, composure was measured by a question from the judges.

The event was held at The Garage. Observers noted that this year's contest was well organized.

CHICAGO

The 7th Annual Gay Fathers Coalition International (GFCI) Conference will be held in Chicago, Illinois the weekend of June 6 thru 8, 1986. The theme of the conference will be "New Horizons...Together We Can Do Anything." It is expected to be the largest conference in the group's history, with nearly 600 men and women attending.

Participants will consider changing the by-laws of the group to increase the participation of gay women and men who are either parents or step-parents.

Considered a minority within a minority, gay mothers and fathers often face prejudice from within the homosexual community, according to Don Harrelson, President of the 50-chapter, 700-member, Washington, D.C.-based GFCI. The majority of the members have at one time been involved in traditional heterosexual relationships, notes GFCI Vice President Julie Valloni.

"However," Valloni adds, "many gay women and men are exploring alternative routes to raising children, including adoption, artificial insemination, foster care, and surrogate parenting." Workshops at the conference will address these issues as well as many others of concern to gay parents.

For more information, write: Rick Karlin, Gay and Lesbian Parents Group/Chicago, 3225 North Sheffield, Chicago, Illinois 60657.

WILMINGTON

Gay and Lesbian Alliance of Delaware (GLAD) provides a hotline, a newsletter, a support group for men, a state gay directory, social events, prison outreach, and advocacy and education.

GLAD is the only statewide gay organization in Delaware. Annual membership is $10. Those interested should write GLAD, PO Box 1008, Wilmington, DE 19899.

INDIANAPOLIS

A support group for gay medical personnel is being formed in Indianapolis. Membership is open to medical students and physicians in any branch of the healing arts. For more information, call (317) 638-1929.

The Gay/Lesbian Switchboard of Indianapolis provides training for new volunteers periodically. Persons who want to participate should contact the Switchboard at (317) 543-6200.

The Switchboard also urges any individuals or groups that wish to have their activities or organizations listed in the Switchboard's Resource Book to call. Any group that has recently had a change of address, contact persons, or phone number should also advise the Switchboard.

SAN FRANCISCO

The Gay Rescue Mission needs a volunteer with a telephone who is usually home evenings to operate the Gay Emergency Shelter Hotline. The Hotline matches those in need of a place to sleep for a couple of nights until their problems are solved with those who take in overnights. The clients are generally gay men who need temporary shelter because of quarrels, robbery, or fire.

Also, more volunteers are needed who are willing to provide shelter.

The Mission gives emergency carry-out groceries, on-site feeding, shelter, and survival counseling services to needy gays. For the past three years, it has been operated by Saint Priapus Church, but it is now incorporating as a separate non-profit corporation. For further information, call (415) 431-2188.

FRESNO

by R.E.S.

Fresno's Gay United Services will be hosting the Temescal Gay Men's Chorus, from the Bay Area, for a benefit performance and reception. The performance will be Saturday, November 9 at 8 PM at Fresno City College Theater.

Also coming in November is the Dove Court's annual pre-Thanksgiving Dinner and reverse raffle. In December, GUS and Aunt Minnie's Restaurant will be sponsoring a Christmas potluck with a twist—a contest will be held to choose the prize-winning entry in different categories, and non-entrants can pay to sample. Also, Metropolitan Community Church will be holding its yearly Christmas Boutique.

To review Fresno's gay information serves:

GUS-Line (information and stress counseling): (209) 264-HELP.

AIDS Line: (209) 264-AIDS.

Gay Community Center, 606 E. Belmont: (209) 268-3541.

The FRONT RUNNER, gay monthly journal, 164 N. Blackstone, Suite 119, Fresno, CA 93701.

There are several gay support groups that meet weekly, including AA, NA, Children of Alcoholic Parents, AIDSrap, men's health, young adults. Information is available from the above sources.

EAST LANSING

The Lansing Association for Human Rights (LAHR) recently celebrated its 6th anniversary. The next regular meeting of LAHR is scheduled for Tuesday, November 12. The special guest will be Craig Covey, the new Executive Director of the Michigan Organization for Human Rights.

For more information, contact LAHR, 855 Grove St., East Lansing, MI 48823; telephone (517) 332-1611.

A Monday night support group meets in Okemos. For more information, call (517) 349-5637.

Several months ago, the Moral Majority took Ingham County to court because the County provided funding for the LAHR Lesbian/Gay Hotline. The Moral Majority lost in court and was instructed to pay costs.

Recently, through their friend Senator Alan Cropsey, they requested an Attorney General opinion about the legality of listing for the "Lesbian/Gay Hotline" and the "National Gay Task Force" in the 1985 telephone directory, since sodomy is illegal under Michigan law.

In a response to the inquiry, Frank J. Kelley, Attorney General, concluded that there is no basis for denying the listing of organizations in the telephone directory because they are gay related.

PORTLAND

Portland's Police Chief, Penny Harrington, has appointed a deputy chief who will serve as the Police Department's liaison to the gay community. The action was taken in an effort to improve relations with Portland's gay residents.

The appointment of Tom Potter resulted after meetings with gay men, women, and police.

According to Harrington, the newly created position is designed to provide a way for gay people to express their concerns about police actions. She added that the move will help to ensure that reports of assault or harassment are fully investigated.

SALT LAKE CITY

A U.S. District Court in Utah recently dismissed a federal indictment against the operators of a New York erotic telephone service because it believes that Congress neglected the area.

The indictment charged that several Salt Lake City youngsters had dialed the New York service and had been exposed to "explicit sexual conduct," including lesbian acts and sodomy among others. The attorney for Carlin Communications, Inc. argued that the government was attempting to prosecute his clients under a statute written to prohibit the interstate transportation of obscene material, not telephone transmission.

The Court agreed with the legal argument, even though it objected to the practice.

Last year the Federal Communications Commission ruled that such telephone services were legal but that operators must restrict access by children by limiting hours of operation and by requiring payment by credit card.

LONG BEACH

by Jack Warren

November in Long Beach looks like it may be a little scarce of activities; but then people kept a few secrets from me about October, and it turned out to be a wonderful month. You can really never tell!

PROJECT AHEAD is planning an "AIDS Awareness Week—LB" for November 16-24.

Silver Fox (Redondo at 4th) finished the 1985 SWATS softball league season undefeated and represented LB at the Gay Softball World Series in Milwaukee. Sorry, no pennant over Long Beach this year; but wait until 1986 in New York. The Briar Patch in Houston won the series. Details/Haberdash finished second in the league ahead of Lil Lucy's.

REC-NET is looking for volleyball players. They meet Saturdays at 11 AM at Stearns Park (East of Lakewood & South of the 405). They are also looking for ski enthusiasts to form a ski club. REC-NET also has a Friday Coffee Club. For more information on any of these activities, call The Center/LB at (213) 434-3089.

Set your VCR for KCET (the public broadcasting station) to record "The Times Of Harvey Mil" on November 13. If you missed this Academy Award winning film at the theatre, don't miss it on TV. Also on KCET is a popular British TV series featuring several gay characters such as gay lovers, a lesbian, and a transvestite. The program is called "Agony" and it is on at 10:30 PM Thursdays. KCET also recently had an all-gay day which included a wonderful documentary on Christopher Street West.

Film buffs will find this important: Broadway Video at 2130 E. Broadway, LB now has William Higgin's "Delivery Boys."

If you know of anything important happening in Long Beach, Orange County, or the South Bay, call me at (213) 438-5358. You can even tell the entire story to my answering machine; it won't hang up until you quit talking.

PALO ALTO

The Stanford University Law School will not permit employers who discriminate against students on the basis of sexual orientation to conduct interviews on campus. The action was taken by the faculty of the law school in mid-October.

Previously, the law school allowed recruiters who discriminated on the basis of sexual orientation to schedule interview appointments on campus, provided the policy was disclosed in advance.

PROVIDENCE

After years of lobbying, gay people in the state of Rhode Island convinced legislators to enact a law banning discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation.

Now gay residents of the state capitol find that local lawmakers do not want to offer them similar protection.

In Providence, the capitol of Rhode Island, the Alliance for Lesbian and Gay Rights lobbied on behalf of a city anti-discrimination ordinance with "sexual orientation" wording attached. The City Council unanimously approved this wording on August 1, 1985. But according to local law, the Council must vote twice on any measure before it can become law.

Gay activists say that Joseph Palino, the Mayor of Providence, maneuvered behind the scenes to crush the "sexual orientation" clause when it came up for its second vote.

Louis Jellano, the Roman Catholic Bishop of Providence, issued a strong statement against gay rights. The Bishop's word carries considerable weight in a city that is 70% Catholic.

The City Council deleted the sexual-orientation wording after a fiery debate in chambers.

Despite the double-jeopardy situation, local gay activists are convinced the ordinance would have passed if a solid coalition had been formed between lesbians, gays, and other minorities in Providence.

HOUSTON

A gay teacher in Houston who was criticized in a television editorial for allowing his picture to appear in a magazine article about AIDS has been transferred to a non-teaching position.

Patrick di Battista "was temporarily reassigned to the research department so the learning environment at Kashmere High School could get back to normal" according to a spokesperson for the Houston Independent School District. Battista is an English teacher.

A picture in the October issue of Houston City Magazine showed an unidentified de Battista with his arm around another man. A local TV reporter reported that the picture had caused shock and outrage among colleagues, students, and parents.

Di Battista does not have AIDS, but agreed to pose for the picture to help send a message to Houston's gay community. He is vice president for community affairs of the KS/AIDS Foundins of Houston, which stresses that gay men should avoid promiscuity.

PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia's Mayor Wilson Goode will issue a proclamation in commemoration of the city's first annual official gay film festival, November 10-23.

The festival will open with Buddies, a film about AIDS, on November 10. It will be introduced by filmmaker Arthur Bressan. All proceeds from the 8 PM November 10 showing will go to the Philadelphia AIDS Task Force.

Though there have been other gay film festivals in Philadelphia, this is the first recognized by the city; and it features films never before shown in the city.

There is one night of lesbian film (On Guard and Tread Softly); however, organizers still hope to schedule additional lesbian films.

For information, call (215) 922-1010.

POMONA/ SAN GABRIEL VALLEY

Special-interest groups are being formed by the Pomona/San Gabriel Valley Gay and Lesbian Coalition for persons who have an interest in such things as bridge, backgammon, computers, cameras, drama, or dance. For information, call the Hotline (714) 623-1491, 6:30-10:00 PM, Monday thru Friday.

WOMEN'S RAP is offered through the Coalition one night a month. Organizers view WOMEN'S RAP as an important part of the Coalition and want it to grow into a weekly event.

Meetings take place in the Community Room at Pomona First Federal in Montclair. The facility is comfortable and refreshments are provided.

Women should call the Coalition's office at (714) 620-6608 to learn more about the RAP.

The Coalition has established a group for young women and young men, under age 23, which meets every Tuesday evening between 6 and 8 PM. The group provides participants with support and an opportunity to discuss concerns and to exchange information. The meetings are under the direction of an experienced youth counselor and are open to all gay youth. For information, call (714) 620-6608.

ASHEVILLE

The North Carolina Court of Appeals recently ruled that the Asheville Police Department must reinstate Police Officer Warren, despite suspicions that he may be gay. The Court said that the Police Department cannot force an officer to take a lie detector test because a person's sexual orientation is not related to his official duties.

Warren's roommate, Officer Warwick, had accused Warren of soliciting him for oral sex. When the Chief of Police confronted Warren on the charges, he admitted that he had made the solicitation only to confirm rumors that Warwick was gay. He later refused to take a polygraph examination.

ST. LOUIS

The City Dance Studio at 4910 Laclede in St. Louis is offering a new and unusual series of classes in dance for gay couples.

The classes are planned to meet the needs of beginners who want to learn how to do various types of nightclub dance styles. Included will be the imperial swing, the cha-cha (night-club form), and the meregue in both the ballroom and the hustle styles.

For information, call City Studio at (314) 367-2125.

MIAMI

Mr. Safe Sex, former Marine Sgt. Glenn Swann, recently taped a "Safe Sex" discussion with noted TV/Radio sexpert, Dr. Ruth Westheimer.

Mr. Safe Sex and Club Body Centre President Jack Cambell will also tape a 45-minute safe-sex talk show for New York's WBAI.

Mr. Safe Sex plans to collaborate with noted gay author John Preston on a novel. And Producer Henry Mach has asked him to be in his safe-sex film "Inevitable."

Mr. Safe Sex has requested that gay men who would like to take part in his safe-sex demonstrations or appear in future films on this topic contact him by at his office address in Miami: 3025 Coral Way, Miami, FL 33145.

DENVER

Gay-rights groups have attacked the policy that requires gay prisoners in the Denver County Jail to wear gray-colored clothing.

Prisoners wear green if they are awaiting trial on felony charges and blue if they are accused of misdemeanors. Gray uniforms are issued to prisoners who are violent or have psychological problems.

Officials say the gray uniforms help guards protect homosexuals from assaults by other prisoners. Gay activists say the policy singles out gay inmates and increases tension.

HOLLYWOOD

The Temenos Youth Outreach Program of the Gay and Lesbian Community Services Center begins facilitator training November 16. Volunteers, 18 and older, will receive 21 hours of training in two weekend seminars.

The Temenos Program is designed to reduce isolation and alienation among gay and lesbian youth. Rap groups have been organized throughout the county for this purpose, and facilitators are needed to accommodate growing participation. Women are particularly encouraged to apply.

Volunteers wishing to participate in the training program should call (213) 464-7400, ext. 248.

BOSTON

The Massachusetts House of Representatives recently rejected a bill to give gay people the same protection from discrimination afforded other minorities.

The 88-to-65 vote came after 3½ hours of debate on civil rights, AIDS, and the endorsement of a gay lifestyle.

The measure's sponsor, Boston's Thomas Vallely, talked about the defeat: "I think the fear of AIDS and the gay foster-parenting issue took quite a toll in the debate; and I think it will be quite some time before this bill has a shot at passage."

It was Governor Michael Dukakis who signed a measure prohibiting gay people from adopting children in Massachusetts. However, Dukakis supported the gay-rights legislation.

Probably the strongest opponent to the civil-rights bill was Representative Roger Goyette who said, "The basic concept of this bill as drafted...is the fact that they're making a civil-rights issue and it's not." Goyette admitted AIDS fears played a major role in defeating the bill and insisted he does not discriminate against gay people, saying: "... (but) I can't go around and legislate an acceptable lifestyle...."

LOS ANGELES

A three-member panel of the US Court of Appeals recently voted in Los Angeles 2 to 1 that an Australian man must leave the United States despite his claimed marriage to a US citizen of the same gender.

The decision upheld the decision of the Federal Board of Immigration Appeals which had ordered the deportation of Anthony Sullivan of Sydney.

The Australian argued that his deportation would be an extreme hardship because it would mean a separation from his domestic partner, US citizen Richard Adams.

The couple said they were married by a minister in Colorado in April 1975, the same month the Immigration and Naturalization Service started deportation proceedings against Sullivan. The INS denied the validity of the gay marriage.

Sullivan may appeal the appellate court's decision to the US Supreme Court or request a hearing before the full court's eleven judges.

NEW YORK

Senior Action in a Gay Environment (SAGE) is a group of trained volunteers who formed in June 1978 to deal with the needs of older lesbians and gay men.

SAGE enhances the older person's connection with the gay community. SAGE services are free and confidential. SAGE offers: visiting, escort service, telephone contact, bereavement support, information and referrals, monthly socials, and workshops.

For more information, write SAGE, 208 W. 13 ST., NY, NY 10011; telephone (212) 741-2247.

CLEARLAKE

by Bill Mooney

Summer and fall went by very quickly at the Lake, and now it is time to start thinking about winter. People here are getting their fireplaces ready for the long winter months. The Cabaret has Kevin from the Chico area tending bar during the daytime. Robert is working the weekend days, and Bill is still doing the night shift. The Cabaret now has a new "Bitch of the Year" by the name of Donnie. Mr. Leather of Clearlake is J.W. His title was awarded at the Leather Weekend; he will have the title for one year. He received $100 first-prize money. Tom G. was the second runner up with a prize of $50. J.W., by the way, was also Mr. Leather of Modesto 1983. If you are traveling north on I-5, you should stop by the bar in the Redding Hotel in Redding. It is a fun bar and the bartender is a hunk. The resorts at the Lake are now charging their winter rates. You can save some money and have a nice stay. This includes Blue Fish Cove on Highway 20 in Clearlake Oaks and Lake Place Resort in Glenhaven. Check their ads in The Patlar for more information. The Cracked Skillet is open Tuesday thru Sunday 7 AM to 3 PM for breakfast and lunch. On the weekends Jan is open for afterhours breakfast, 1-3 AM. They serve good food! All of us in Clearlake want to wish each of you a Happy Thanksgiving. Come to the Lake and enjoy yourself.

SACRAMENTO

In a recent interview, California Governor Deukmejian said he would appoint a gay person to a judicial bench. Although none of the 250 judicial appointments he has made to date are gay, Deukmejian indicated he would consider a qualified gay person.

Deukmejian's predecessor, Jerry Brown, appointed four persons who were openly gay to the bench. One, San Francisco Municipal Judge Herbert Donaldson, was appointed on Brown's last day in office.

WEST PALM BEACH

In Palm Beach County in Florida, health officials plan to distribute Captain Condom posters and fishbowls full of rubbers in gay bars in an effort to slow the spread of AIDS. The rubbers and posters will be distributed by the county health department.

Jayson Trussel, a health services supervisor, said: "We would be naive to try to convince people not to have sex. We want to get the word out in the community that condom use will prevent the disease. It will and does."

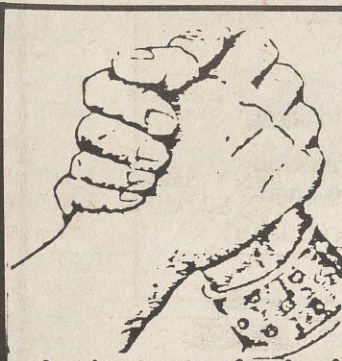

The Captain Condom poster features men sitting at a bar. In the foreground stands a life-sized prophylactic with a face and arms. Beside it are the words, "Use me. Avoid AIDS. Condoms help."

Captain Condom first appeared in military training films during the 1940s to warn soldiers of sexually transmitted diseases.

DOING AMERICA WITH

BOB DAMERON

NASHVILLE

Everyone knows that Nashville is the "Country Music Capitol of the World." It is the second largest music-recording center in America and home of the Grand Ole Opry. What you may not know is that Nashville is also the largest banking, printing, and insurance center in Dixie. With Vanderbilt, Peabody, and a dozen other colleges and universities, it is known as the "Athens of the South." Last, but not least, Nashville, with a population of nearly half a million, is the capital of the great state of Tennessee.

With 700 churches, Nashville is sort of a "Bible Belt Vatican."

Founded in 1779, the city and surrounding countryside played a major role during the Civil War. Although Tennessee joined the Confederacy, many men chose to fight on the side of the Union, thus gaining the nickname of the "Volunteer State," or "Vols." Andrew Jackson lived and loved his stately mansion, The Hermitage, eleven miles northeast of here, and died there in 1845.

Along with New Orleans and Atlanta, Nashville is one of the best bar towns in the South. Of the two super discos, the Cabaret is located near Vanderbilt University and Peabody at 1711 Hayes, one block north of West End Avenue. The other is the Warehouse 28 at Franklin Road, which is an extension of 8th Avenue South. Both get a preppy unisex crowd, but there may be a few more women at the Cabaret. Sharing the same parking lot with the Warehouse 28 is the Chute at 2535 Franklin Road, the "hottest" country and western, levi and leather bar for hundreds of miles in any direction.

B. Palola's at 1812 Hayes, just a block from the Cabaret, is the best gay dinner house in Nashville and the lounge and front porch are packed with attractive yuppies.

All four of the above serve mixed drinks, but some have only beer and wine. The Crazy Cowboy and Bob's Cowboy East are friendly neighborhood beer bars next to each other in the 2300 block of Franklin Road South. Juanita's, the oldest gay bar in Nashville, has moved to 1700 10th Avenue South and attracts something for everyone. The Jungle Lounge and Victor Victoria's get some hustlers and raunch types, while Ralph's is favored by women.

Cruisy bookstores include the Purple Onion (days) at Thompson Lane and Nollensville, the Classic Arts and the Carousel. Other popular cruisy areas are Cedar Hill Park—near the tennis courts—and Edwin Warner Park; as I invariably stress, these public places are strictly at your own risk. Nashville bars are open daily until 3:00 AM, but are spread out, so a car is a necessity.

Among the best hotels in Nashville are the Hyatt Regency, Hermitage, Raddison Plaza, and Opryland; but I usually stay at the conveniently situated Holiday Inn-Vanderbilt.

For fun, trendy eateries, try T.G.I. Fridays, Gold Rush, Elliston Place Soda Shop, Maude's Courtyard, and Tony Roma's. For good straight dining, I recommend Arthur's Broadway Bistro, Brass Rail Stables, Crown Court, and Mario's. Personally, I think the Stock Yard and Villa Romano are just so-so, while the elegant Julian's cuisine is not comparable to its prices, menu, or prissy staff.

There is lots to see in Nashville, whether you have been here once or a dozen times. The Parthenon in Centennial Park is the only full-scale replica of the Greek marvel in America or elsewhere. The State Capital is another good example of Greek architecture, and the burial place of President James Knox Polk. A "must" for country-music fans are Opryland, the Grand Ole Opry, Country Music Hall of Fame, and Country Wax Museum. Other points of interest include Vanderbilt University, Peabody College, Fort Nashborough, Belle Meade, Tennessee State Museum, Belmont Mansion, the Botanical Gardens at Cheekwood, and boat trips on the scenic Cumberland River.

Believe me, the bars are fun and the people are friendly. I hope you'll enjoy Nashville as much as I do.

NORTHRIDGE

A new rap group for gay and lesbian youth, called Unity, has started meeting at the Newman Center, 17809 Halsted Street in Northridge. The rap group is sponsored by the Temenos Youth Outreach Program of the Gay and Lesbian Community Services Center and is funded by the County of Los Angeles.

Young gays and lesbians, age 23 and under, are invited to meet and discuss topics of special interest and concern. Periodically the rap group will feature guest speakers, and social activities will be coordinated with other groups.

For more information on this and other groups throughout the county, call (213) 464-7400, ext. 248 or (818) 368-6201.

BERKELEY

A plan to provide the domestic partners of non-married city workers with health insurance has moved closer to reality in Berkeley, California.

City officials voted several months ago to offer insurance coverage to live-in lovers, gay and non-gay, but most of the city's insurance providers have not agreed to offer the coverage.

However, according to a school-district official, coverage may be available very soon now after contract agreements have been finalized with Blue Cross, Kaiser, and Heals Medical Plans.

A spokesman said there are 35 eligible employees, most of them non-gays, who are expected to apply for coverage.

CAMBRIDGE

A Harvard University professor recently denied that he is working on a model quarantine law for people with AIDS as was reported in Newsweek.

William J. Curran, professor of legal medicine at Harvard's School of Medicine and Public Health, said the magazine incorrectly reported his work, which he describes as post-graduate exercises on legal matters concerning AIDS.

Curran said that after the article appeared in Newsweek, several government jurisdictions and officials contacted him for answers to quarantine questions. Curran did not provide answers, but he learned that not many people are actually working on the issue.

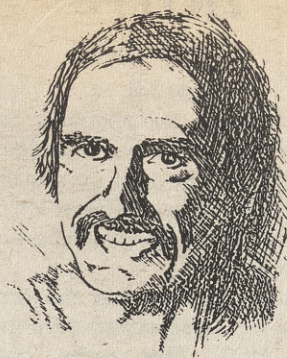

OAKLAND

Artists for Community Life (ACL) is a group of artists who work together on AIDS-related and non-related creative projects. ACL emphasizes mutual support in staying healthy and in creating art.

Individuals who want to work on videotape, music, graphic art exhibition, or other projects such as a major festival fundraiser are invited to participate. Others interested in contributing organizing skills towards coordinating the artists' group are also welcome.

The November General Meeting will be on Thursday, November 21 at 540 Alabama St. in San Francisco.

For additional information, write Community Life, PO Box 20305, Oakland, CA 94620-0305.

I am writing this first column for the November issue of The Patlar very early in the morning after the hurricane, Gloria, passed up the East Coast, leaving minimum damage in view of the originally reported intensity of the storm. And so, as I look out the windows on a still-cloudy day with occasional gusts of wind but with the sun breaking through to the East, I have much to be thankful for. My home is safe and secure. The pond is over full, but the overflow is releasing that water. There are no trees down. Nothing damaged at all! And I'm sure our reservoirs have been at least partially refilled.

All of us—and I don't just mean gay people—seem to have fallen into the habit of cursing our fate and looking always for some justification for being miserable and unhappy. We expect the worst—and usually get it. And, if we don't, then we are annoyed that it didn't happen—and may even be angry that our negative expectations were not met!

I have a little exercise for each of you that can make an amazing difference in your life. Each morning, when you awake, do as I just did this morning. Lie abed for just a few more minutes and take inventory. And let your inventory be (a) each and every thing for which you can be thankful. If you have difficulty beginning, start by observing that you are still alive one more day! And, go on from that point and list only those items for which you are

SACRAMENTO OPERA QUEENS, (and goodness, only knows how many tens of thousands of you there are out there), give me your undivided attention, please! Don't miss The Sacramento Opera's up-coming performances of Die Fledermaus scheduled for Friday, November 22 at 8 PM and Sunday, November 24 at 2 PM in the Sacramento Community Center Theater at 13th and L Streets. Sacramento's (and Reno's, because that's where she's from even if she did get some of her early breaks here in River City) favorite coloratura, Miss Evelyn de la Rosa, is scheduled to sing a leading role. Evelyn, who is in the big time now, is the nearest thing to Maria Callas around at this time. Let's all be there to give her an ovation that'll literally stop the show. Sacramento's gay community has learned that we can always count on Evelyn; let's make sure that Evelyn (and the Sacramento Opera Association) can always count on us! And don't forget to be proud to be an Opera Queen!...On Thanksgiving Day at The Buffalo Club, starting at 6 PM, they will be serving a full-course turkey dinner right down to the pumpkin pie. Also, that day you'll be able to drink all night at Happy Hour prices...If you would like to eat a little earlier, the Mercantile Saloon which will be serving their annual Thanksgiving Buffet starting at 1:00 PM with Happy Hour starting at 4:00...Then on down to the Western where there will be a buffet awaiting you starting at 3:00 PM...Food, food & more food. Yes, there's more to come...At Cleo's on November 10 and 17 (Sundays) they are scheduling free dinners starting at 6 PM. Their drink specials for those nights will be Long Island Iced Tea for $1.75. On the 17th, they will have a special added attraction: "Those Cleo Girls" in an all new cast...November 24 The Patlar will have its annual Christmas Party at Cleo's starting at 7 PM...For all of you culture-minded people out there, The Wreck Room will be holding an "Art Attack" night on November 23. Any type of art you like, you will be able to find it there. And don't forget the Knights of Malta will be holding their second annual Hairy Chest Contest on November 16 at the Wreck Room starting at 8 PM...Back to eating: Have you been out to Scandals/BoJangles lately? If not, you are missing a treat. Especially the restaurant (Beau's). It is open Tues. thru Sat. nights, 6 til 10 PM. Take a look at this, Ladies: Tues. night is your night. Two meals for the price of one. Ok, Men, don't get up on your high horses. Your night is Thurs. Same deal: two for the price of one. However, if you should miss any of these nights, you can take care of that on Sun. at the Sunday Brunch, 10 AM til 3 PM. A beautiful champagne brunch with your own gracious hostess, Miss Irene, with Rosa as your singing and dancing bartender. It's a lovely way to spend a Sunday afternoon...Congrats to Terry & staff on a very successful grand opening at Faces. Terry tells me he has another hot star coming soon, so watch for his announcement...Check out the Rose; they have two floors of fun, take your pick. HOT!

by Galen Moon
(Age 83)

At breakfast one morning, the college-student member of our family announced he'd hit on a really terrific idea to help solve a lot of problems for the aging members of our community.

"You guys get together and form a club or organization with the initials HOT. That spells 'hot' which stands for Horny Old Trolls. If you want to include the women, you can spell it HOTT for Horny Old Trolls and Trollinas. Maybe if you do something like that and help the young ones understand what really happens in this world, things may work out better for everyone. You know, if everyone helps each other, the whole world will be better.

Jim and I were surprised and maybe just a bit insulted, but as the HOT suggestion worked around in our minds and was talked about, the radical suggestion began to seem reasonable and practical.

Modern education seems to produce some unexpected solutions to old problems. Could it be that computers fail to recognize the supposed importance of maintaining tradition?

Anyway, we decided to put the suggestion into action, and this is the announcement to the gay/lesbian population of a new movement in our world. A movement aimed at relieving some of the stress and strain and frustration which generally exists between the young and the senior homosexuals. "Young" in this context means anywhere from nineteen to thirty or maybe even up to the forties. "Senior" can mean almost anywhere between fifty and one hundred. (You don't believe a hundred-year-old gay gets horny? You ought to get to know my friend Jasper K.; he says sex every day is what keeps him young.)

The by-laws for HOTT are not yet finalized. The first twenty-five people who sign up will be charter members, and we're going to have you check them over and give your input. A sixty-two year old who had handed in his check for membership suggested we should have some of the college students, who seem to have promoted this idea, provide their concept of what can make this really HOTT for everyone.

Maybe we'll ask them to come up with a suggested outline for by-laws and procedures which can prevent our being labeled with some of the uncomplimentary names some people come up with when they see other people enjoying life. Maybe an organization like HOTT can sort of legitimize happenings and relationships among people of differing ages. And, it should help some of the younger ones to achieve stability, a higher degree of self esteem and pride while requiring the older persons to share and demonstrate the knowledge and perceptions acquired through years of dwelling in this sometimes hostile world—a stimulating process for both parties which makes the sharing of affection a spiritual adventure.

There is doubt the IRS will grant this club non-profit status, but for sure we can obtain a state charter and develop honest statements of purpose and a network of educational satellites. We can circulate a newsletter and get the support of gerontologists and the psycho-treatment professionals who know that doing without affection and demands on one's talents and abilities is a quick way to the grave.

Being happily useful, being needed and appreciated, being loved and giving love makes for living success; the kind of success which benefits humanity instead of rewarding selfishness.

So, we want to find out whether this HOTT idea is really "hot." The first twenty-five people, male or female, old, young, or in between who send in requests for membership with annual dues of $25 will be charter members and will have voting rights on the by-laws and operating procedures. Your letter will be acknowledged with receipt for your membership fee and copies of all materials being used for construction of by-laws, purpose, and goals of this organization. Address communications and payments to HOTT, c/o G. Moon, 278 S. 2nd Ave., Upland, CA 91786.

Over Eighteen!

by Sam Keasbey

I vacillate between two attitudes: cynicism and sunshine with a ray of hope. For instance, look at the golden dawn in the sky. See how it lights up yonder hills and dales, gradually spreading its glow over Mother Earth and lending a pristine quality to a new dawn and a new day. Versus: Look at the rosy glow in the sky. Is that the dawn or twenty missiles unleashed from Russian silos streaking westward to seal our doom and the fate of the world?

This attitude makes it difficult to plan my day, and to make decisions such as whether "Tide" or "All" gets my clothes more clean. Not to mention the horrible problems of static cling which make my unmentionables an absolute mess. Mother didn't tell me there would be days like this, for in her day there was no static cling, nor were there any Russian missiles. There was only static from the radio; and just as you cupped your ear to hear an important news item from H.V. Caltenbourn, or Walter Winchell talking to all the ships at sea, along would come the static drowning out the words.

Static electricity could be lots of fun, however, if you were a kid. You would drag your heels across the rug to charge yourself up, then reach out to touch your unsuspecting sister on the back of the neck, sending the room into pandemonium and livening up your evening.

Today the world is full of many things besides cabbages and kings, sealing wax and static cling. There aren't many kings left, and cabbage stinks when you cook it; as for sealing wax, it has lost its purposes of insuring privacy for calvary movements and love notes. We now stamp "Top Secret" on our documents and lock them away from prying eyes, which means from practically everyone.

When we accumulate enough secret material, one or another of the privileged few steals the secrets and sells them for thirty pieces of silver to the enemy of the week in order to make a down payment on something fashionable.

Once the criminals are apprehended, we hold a congressional investigation, send a few people to prison, then all the lawyers buy new Mercedeses and yachts, or tax shelters which are guaranteed to lose money, at least on paper. The public, which is diverted for a moment from who won the latest sports event, perks up its collective head for a few days, then forgets, and six weeks or six days later all is forgiven or forgotten.

Sic transit gloria mundi, as they said in older days, but the wounds do not heal, and the psychic scars are still with us as we watch Greenspace slowly sinking in the west with the French playing The Marseillais: le jour de gloire est arrive'. Methinks there are no days of glory anymore. In this electronic age, our deeds do not stick with us. We have successfully eliminated static cling. There is true anonymity as we slide down the razor blade of life. No splinter obstructs our downward descent until we slip into the waters of Lethe and disappear without even a bubble to mark our demise.

In the "good old days" when life was simple, we watched wide eyed as the Perils of Pauline flickered across the screen. Pearl White was tied to the railroad tracks by the bad group, and we could hear the train whistle in the distance. We squirmed in our chairs as the train drew closer, and heaved a sigh of relief as our hero arrived to untie the ropes which bound her. The rescuers arrived just in time, but they always arrived, enabling Pauline to go off on another adventure, and we

THE POWER OF THE PRESS

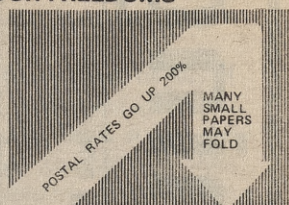

PROTECTING OUR FREEDOMS

The power of the press was quickly felt in this country—even before it was a country. Benjamin Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette, started in 1729, in Philadelphia, was one of the strongest voices favoring the American Revolution.

Strong voices are being raised again, to protect the power of the press to get to the people. The government is thinking of raising the postal rates for newspapers by as much as 200 percent. That could seriously affect the price and even the availability of many community papers.

Many Americans concerned about freedom and the balance of power in this country are writing their legislators about this issue. Anyone wishing to write Congress on either side of this or any issue can write to the U.S. Senate, Washington D.C. 20510 and the House of Representatives, Washington D.C. 20515.

Grandfather—

Next comes the 'haute cuisine' part. Cool the mixture to room temperature. Take some eggs, one for a soft pudding, two for a firm pudding, and three for a moulded pudding. Separate the yolks and whites and stir the yolks into the pudding mixture. Maybe beat them with a fork or whisk until light yellow: this helps the pudding get fluffy.

Beat the egg whites until stiff and they stand up asking for it. (Eggs are a wood element.) Then carefully fold the pudding into the egg whites like you would for a soufflé or an angel food cake. Now, if you used three eggs, grease a fancy mould and pour in the mixture carefully. Otherwise use any old bowl or maybe the double boiler. You can put a little water in your crockpot and set the mould or dish into the water. Or just put it back into the crockpot.

Cook the pudding for a couple of hours without boiling until the eggs congeal and stiffen the pudding. Remove from the heat and cool. After cooling, dip the mould into hot water for two minutes and lay your fanciest cut crystal plate on top the mould and turn the whole thing upside down quickly. If everything went well and pudding is stiff enough, it will un mould and stand up nicely. If it doesn't stand up nicely, eat it anyway; for one of the nice things about this dish is that, if it goes limp somewhere in the process, it is still delicious.

This pudding is a 'cold' dish. That is, all the ingredients are neutral or cold in Chinese medical terminology: the vanilla and bananas cool the body. If eaten on a hot day, the eater will feel cool. If eaten by a sick, fevered person, the fever will break or be greatly diminished. This is one of the great medical values of the recipe. Also, it has a mild flavor and if it hasn't been boiled, it is extremely nutritious. The slight graininess of the texture is the millet germ (like wheat germ) with all that good stuff still inside. The bananas are high in potassium and that is good for the nerve synapses and restoring the body's mineral balance after a high fever and sweating. The honey and Angostura Bitters restore the appetite and activate the digestion. Cooking at low heat (150 to 160 degrees F.) keeps the vitamins and unknown goodies intact for nutritional value.

clearly thankful. (b) Now make a mental list of all of the probable good things you want to experience for this day. A pleasant breakfast, a nice smile from the doorman or the waitress at the diner. A good day at work. A refreshing lunch break. A safe trip home from the job. A pleasant phone call from a dear friend. A relaxing and enjoyable evening. A restful and comfortable night's sleep. Make up your own list! Making such a list is the first step in experiencing such a good day! (c) Then finally take just a few minutes to review yesterday and notice all of those bad things you had worried about, or feared might happen that day, and notice that none of them—or at most only one or two—ever happened!

Then get out of bed and begin your day.

This simple exercise, performed regularly each morning, can transform your life and your world! I speak from personal experience. It is more than just positive thinking; rather it is based upon taking a new inventory of your life coming from the point of view that the Universe does support and sustain you if you will simply let yourself let go of your habit of looking for the bad and now begin to look for the good. The truth is that the good is always there, even when what happens seems less than good, if you will look. Or, as all the spiritual disciplines would put it: Simply become conscious. This exercise will initiate that process of growing consciousness.

I welcome you to the world of possible! You will discover as we proceed that there is wonder and beauty and yes, even love in the world, when you are open to the discovery of that!

With this process you have begun an incredible voyage of discovery...of Self-Discovery!

This is only the beginning, for you will discover: "...and there is more!"

Eighteen—

from p. 12

knew it would be another perilous one.

In countless westerns, the bad guys were apprehended during the last reel, nooses were wrapped around their necks, and justice was done, swiftly and surely. But justice was local, and performed by a posse or the sheriff.

Today justice is difficult to pin down. It's hard to find a villain to hiss as life flickers by us. No matter how much we squirm in our seats, no hero or heroine arrives to untie the ropes which now bind all of us.

Who wears the white hats in the FBI, the NKVD, the CIA, and Interpol? Who are the victims? Are they guilty? Of What? What should the punishment be? Where is the murder weapon? The bodies are never found. The Whole affair is foggy and nebulous. Who is responsible for acid rain, pollution of lakes and rivers and the very air we breathe? And what of the greenhouse effect, wars, endangered species, child abuse, rape, fag bashing? Yes, we've come a long way, baby, from horse thieves and cattle rustlers.

Who really shot the Pope? Who really killed the Kennedys? Malcolm X? Who killed Society? Rambo? John Wayne? Yuppies? Guppies? Or did Society kill itself by not caring enough?

In the early days of the space age, a verse was circulated which went like this: "I shoot rockets up. Who cares where they come down? That's not my department, says Werner von Braun."

There is no magic solution to our problems—local, national, worldwide, or intergalactic. Although we are only, like the song said, dust in the wind, we all can make a difference, if not to others, at least to ourselves. Maybe we can't stop the rain from falling, but we can at least protest, write letters, and phone our congressmen when we are irked, hurt, shunned, oppressed, neglected, rebuffed.

And if we can't be global in our actions, then we can at least hug a friend, write someone a letter, or, as Ma Bell says, reach out and touch someone. We can volunteer, sit on the sidelines and cheer, or just smile at someone so you both feel better.

'ART ATTACK AND AUCTION' a benefit to help AIDS will be held at the Wreck room, 2513 Broadway, on Nov 23 from 3-10pm. Artists, gallerys, collectors and individuals have donated a variety of paintings, sketches, sculpture and crafts.

The ART ATTACK itself will consist of a large work of art on canvas to be created by artists attending the event. This work will be presented to the AIDS Foundation as a gift from the artists.

The works being auctioned will be on view at the Wreck Room from Nov 9. Silent bids will be taken until the 23rd. The highest bid at 10 pm. on that date will win the art.

Happy Thanksgiving

Five Sacramento artists will have their work exhibited at the I Street Gallery, 1725 I Street, November 5-30. A reception for the artists will be held Friday November 8, 7-9pm.

The title of the exhibit is Sacramento Pulp and Paint and features George Kafuorar, Janis Edwards, Royanne Levy, Jan Rooney and Marcia Cary.

For further information call 447-7014.

LOOKING FOR MATE with good sense of direction. I've been stranded for sometime now miles from home. I watch people watch me, but they seem to stay their distance. I like to play safe and I'm harmless. People seem to be amused and appear to be having a whale of a good time every time I surface. They stick things in the water that are supposed to make sounds like mating calls; but who are they trying to fool? It seems they are trying to tell me something, but I'm not sure what. I'm scared and lonely. The food here is lousy, not like home. Whoever'd like to help this poor lost whale should write: The Whale, c/o The Patlar, PO Box 22402, Sacramento, CA 95822.

VIDEO ENTERTAINMENT FOR MEN!

"Since 1983, the Male Entertainment Network has criss-crossed the country, countless times, documenting so many different facets of gay life one wonders if there is anything this innovative group might have overlooked. From the most elegant of female impersonators on the runway of the Miss Continental Pageant to the muscled, macho, leather-clad entries in the Mr. International Leather and Mr. Drummer contests—the whole array of gay men and gay lifestyles has been captured, condensed, and clarified through the score of titles from MEN."

It's Better at Buc's

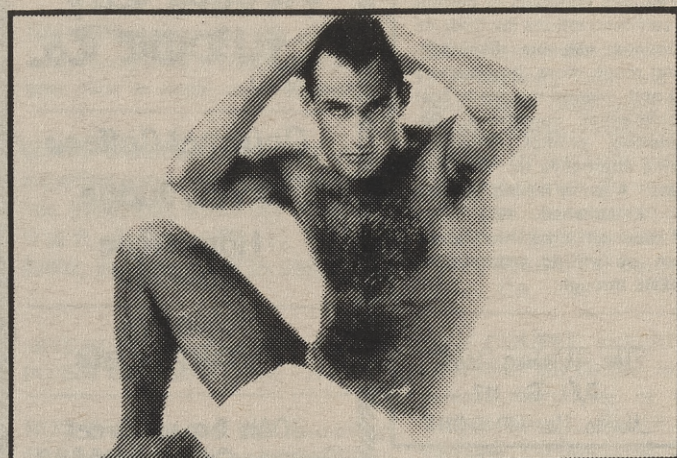

BUDDY

A favorite in the bathhouse . . . a guy with enough stamina to take on a dozen guys — and give each of them a night to remember.

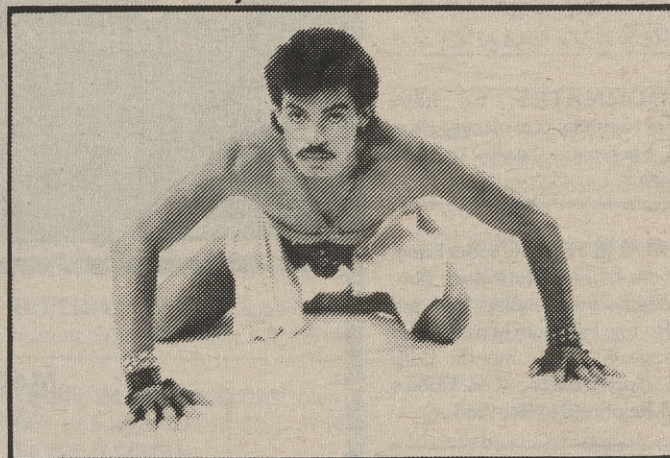

DOCTOR REAMWELL

Doctor of what? you wonder. You'll find out when you feel his glorious body in action. He'll use you . . . you'll use him . . . and it'll be an experience you'll never forget.

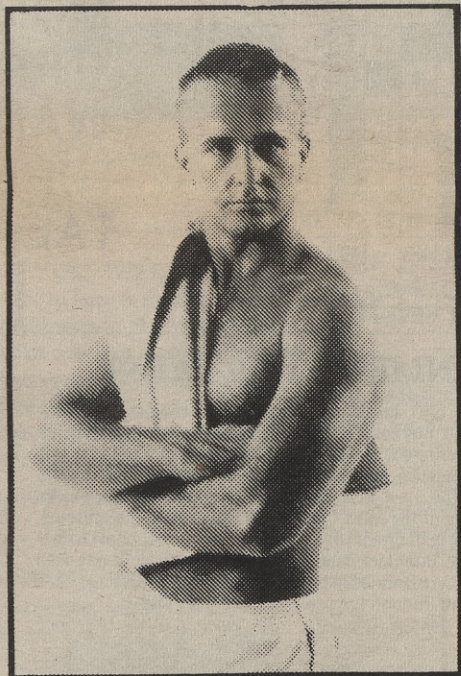

TROY

The tight towel boy . . . the most willing little crotch pleaser in all of California. What happened in the steamroom should happen to you.

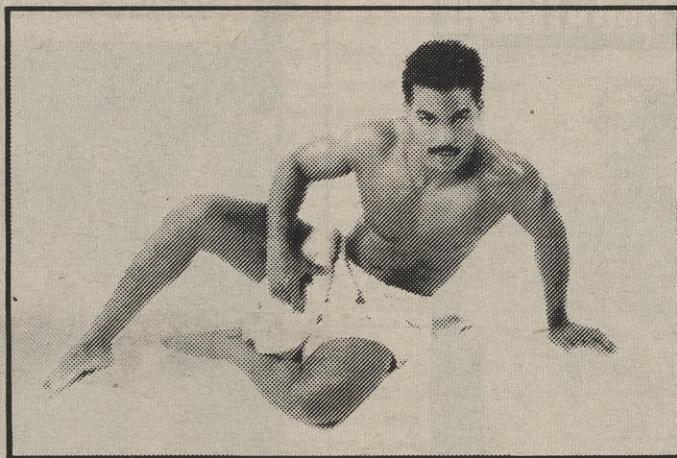

ANTONIO

He says: "When I first walked into the bathhouse everyone stared. They couldn't believe it . . ." You won't believe it either.

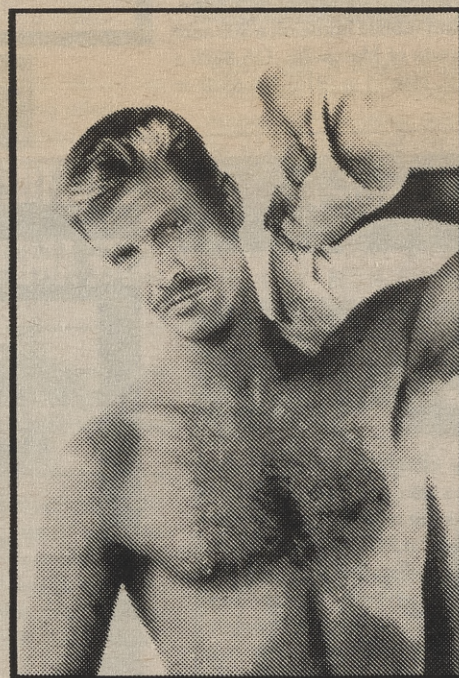

RAMMER

A bully, a man who'll just laugh while you writhe . . . and whip you for good measure.

FLIP

A guy who never says No — who doesn't know how to say No . . . whatever you suggest . . .

BUC

He runs the bathhouse with a rod of iron — his rod. He's the boss . . . a guy with a great body and a great sex drive who wants everyone to have fun.

Here at Buc's Bathhouse, amid the steam and the sweat and the throng of jostling male bodies, your wildest fantasies can come true — all for the cost of a telephone call.

Call (213/818) 976-BUC'S

*You must be over 18 years of age. No membership fees or credit card charges. Call will cost $2 when calling from the same area code. Additional toll charges may apply for calls outside the calling areas.
